

Making the Online World More Human: A Dialogue Between Human Rights and Theology

Brendan Byrne & Mark Zirnsak

What do our relationships to the online world mean? What role do governments and technology corporations have in facilitating such realities, and their risks? How do we negotiate the different expectations we have in the online and other worlds we occupy? What theological convictions can we bring to bear on such questions?

Join us for a discussion about the complex issues of privacy, citizenship, freedom, and rights in the digital spaces we occupy.

Brendan Byrne is a Minister in the Uniting Church in Australia. He has worked as a securities officer in a major Australian financial institution, as an employee advocate for blue- and white-collar trade unions, and as a convenience store clerk. He hosts Ergasia: A Podcast of Work, Faith, Theology, and Economics.

Mark Zirnsak is the Senior Social Justice Advocate, Synod of Victoria and Tasmania, Uniting Church in Australia. He is a member of the Attorney General's National Roundtable on Slavery and Human Trafficking, and the Asia-Pacific Financial Coalition Against Child Sexual Exploitation.

Wednesday 3 June, 7–7.45pm AEST

This event will be presented using Zoom Webinar software.

Register here:

https://divinity.zoom.us/webinar/register/WN_1cH3dssWQOGOu6VynUyd6A

Free of Charge | All welcome